Grant's Reconnoissance-The Troops Back in their old position-Cavalry Attacks upon our rear repulsed with loss-Our loss about fifteen hundred only-The 2d Corps takes a large number of Prisoners.

[Correspondence Associated Press.] HEADQUARTERS ARMY POTOMAC, Oc. 30, a m .- Since the army returned to its old quar. ters on Friday, nothing of importance has

The enemy's cavalry followed our troops closely as they returned, but were prevented from doing any damage of importance. The only captures they made at this time were some eight or ten ambulances, which had taken a wrong direction, but even these they could not get away. The horses were cut loose and run off, and our men burned the wagons. The rebel cavalry made repeated attempts to charge, but were each time repulsed with loss.

During the day the entire army reached the positions occupied by it previous to the move, when the enemy at once withdrew, and they also returned to their former position.

Our losses will reach about 1,500, as near as can be ascertained at present. The 2d corps, which did most of the fighting, lost 10 officers killed, 31 wounded, 77 men killed, 480 wounded and about 400 missing.

The loss of the enemy was severe, and some say more than our own, in killed and wounded. We have eight hundred and twenty-eight prisoners, and four battle flags-most of which were taken by the 2d corps. The 5th corps lost about one hundred and thirty altogether, and the 9th corps upwards of one hundred and fifty, mostly in the colored The casualties in the cavalry division are not known precisely, but are thought to be about two hundred. Many of those classed as missing, will undoubtedly return to camp, as the number of stragglers was large, and are constantly coming in. The highest praise is given by all to the officers and men of the second and third divisions for their behavior during the day. Generals Eagan and Mott, who commanded them, and General Smyth and Colonel McAlister, commanding brigades, are particularly praised for the able manner in which they handled their men. The charge made by the New Jersey brigade.

under Col McAllister, on the enemy who had got in the rear of our forces, was one of the finest ever witnessed, and resulted in saving the entire position. All is quiet, with the exception of picket firing, which is quite lively at night. W. D. MCGREGOR.

FROM THE FRONT.

The steamer Keyport, now detailed as the headquarters boat at this port, arrived about 5 o'clock, with Generals Halleck, Barnard and Rollins, Col. Cutts and other staff officers who have been to the front. The Keyport left City Point at 10% o'clock yesterday morning and made the trip in less than 18 hours, notwithstanding the fog.

The Dan'l Webster, Capt. Dearing, arrived also this morning with the mails and passengers from City Point, among whem were about 150 men of the 1st Maine cavalry, under command of Major Thaxter, who are on their way home, their term of service having expired. Hon. George Ashum has just published a letter giving an account of an interview between himself, the late Senator Douglas and PresidentLincoln on the night that Fort Sumter was fired upon by the rebels. The only differ ence of opinion between Mr. Douglas and Mr. Lincoln, was that Mr. Douglas was for calling out 200,000 instead of 75,000 men, and had a much clearer estimate of the intentions and strength of the Rebellion than had the President. On the question of a vigorous and prompt suppression of the outbreak, all three gentleman were in perfect accord.

In face of the fact that five letters, written and signed by him as Supreme Commander of the Sons of Liberty, were produced at the late Dodd trial in Indianapolis, and identified as his penmanship by his intimate friend, George H. Pugh, and in spite of the clearest and most conclusive evidence that his secret order is a traitorous organization, Vallandizham has had the assurance to aver, in a public communication, that all the charges against him are "absolute fal-eh ods and fabrications from begining to end." FAREWELL SERMON.- Yesterday, both at morning and evening service, a large congregation attended the venerable Christ Church at the Navy Yard, it being understood that the pastor, Rev. Joshua Morsell, would take leave of his congregation, he having resigned the rectorship of the parish to take effect on that

For some time past there has been an unhappy feeling existing between the pastor, vestry and some of the congregation, caused by some reports in circulation reflecting on the pastor's conduct, which led him to tender his resignation which was accepted by the vestry. The allegations were to the effect that he had attempted improper liberties with female members of his congregation. It is claimed in his behalf, however, that those making the charges afterwards signed a paper exculpating him, but that a feeling of self respect and the belief that his usefulness had been impaired by the scandal caused his resignation. In the morning Mr. Morsell preached from Acts 24th chapter and 25th verse, making in it but one allusion to his leaving the congregation, in which he stated that he hoped the petty quar rels between pastor, vestry and people would never recur.

At night the text was, "Ye are my witnesses," part of the 10th verse, 2d chapter of Thessalonians; and he commenced by noticing the presence of so large an assemblage, some of whom he had not seen in church for months, and who would only come out on the occasion of a funeral or farewell sermon. He wished the sermon to be indeed a farewell sermon, for he wished each and every one to fare well in every sense. He referred to his course, stating that he had eschewed politics in the pulpit, although a perfectly loyal man, and if he had his way he would exclude politics from all pulpits. On politics in the pulpit he had been silent. The prayer for the President he had used, and he considered it a test of loyalty, and no President, good or bad, had ever changed his loyalty; he always used it. At the South the prayer was for the President of the Confederate States, and it was loyal there to use it. He was satisfied with his course; he had preached nothing but Christ and justification by faith.

He expressed the hope that a minister might be procured who would preach nothing else. He was an Episcopalian, and yet he considered it his duty to unite with the brethren of other denominations in anything tending to advance the cause of Christ, and he referred to his association with other denominations in the union prayer meetings, which he had no cause to regret. Some of the happiest and most prof-itable moments of his life were spent in the union prayer meetings in Christ Church.

The results of his nine years' pastorship were as follows: When he entered on his duties coming into the church during his ministry than had for 20 years previously; and at one time there were 280 on the books. He had been asked where they are now; but was he to be questioned on this subject! He did not think that he should be charged with the conduct of the people in neglecting their duty. This church was not unlike others. Seldom did all members of a church commune. He had inquired of a minister whose church numbers (ii) members, who informed him that seldom did more than half that number attend communion service. He had been in and out among the people. visiting and doing all the good he could, though he regretted that he could not have done more. Much that had been charged against him laid at their own doors, and he urged them in future not to charge to the minister what he was not accountable for. He had done all he could to promote the temporal welfare of his parishoners, and if they could find a man more willing than he, he would say God grant to send him here. Many had done him harm to whom he had done good, and if he had done harm, he hoped to be forgiven, and he forgave all. There was one time when he suffered the greatest agony. He had been crushed by almost an avalanche of accusations, but afterwards his heart was cheered by receiving a letter exculpating him from the accusations. Still auother letter more soothing to his feelings, if possible, had been presented him, and he returned his thanks to those of his friends who had thus sustained him. He then referred to his pecuniary condition.

being, after nine years service among them, the poorest of all, having no home and no parish. He had been poorly supported -$800 one year, $600 another, and now he had been compelled to sell his library. In conclusion, he expressed his earnest wishes for the welfare of the church, which had given their pastor noble vindication, and begged pardon for any act of which he had been guilty which could be construed into an offence, and expressed the hope that the church would have the fullest measure of prosperity. The services being closed, many of the congregation advanced to take leave of the pastor, and mutual expressions of good will were

DISTRICT SUPREME COURT .- This morning, in this Court, sitting in banc, Judges Cartter, Olin, and Wylie on the bench, Chief Justice Cartter delivered the unanimous opinion of the Court in the case of Coltman vs Adams, (Coltman's trustee,) affirming the decision in the chancery court The Chief Justice remarked that the conclusion was unanimous, but it was given with considerable reluctance on his part. The facts in the case are as follows:-Chas. L. Coltman died in 1860, leaving a will in which he directs that a stipulated sum shall be paid annually out of the rents, &c., to the widow and heirs, until twenty years from the time of his death, when the property shall be sold for the benefit of such of his descendants as may be living; but if none shall be living, then the proceeds are to go to endowing a House of Refuge for destitute reputable females. A few months since some of the unimproved property was sold under a decree of the court, and the heirs became purchasers of some of it, and they now claim that instead of paying the purchase money it shall be deducted from their respective shares. This question was taken to the court in chancery and decided against them. The case has been before the court in banc for the past two days, Messrs. R. J. Brent and Blunt appearing for the plaintiffs, and Bradley and Davidge for defendants, and has been argued at length. THE MILITARY COMMISSION presided over by General Doubleday is back this morning at their rooms, on F street, between 13th and 14th streets. The case of Hamilton Easter & Co. and their clerks did not come up to-day, it being postponed to Wednesday next, at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of taking up the case of Col. North, New York State agent, who was arrested in this city a few days since, on the charge of fraud in connection with the soldiers' vote of that State. The commission, at 12% o'clock, adjourned to 10 o'clock to-morrow, when the North case will come up, which promises to be a lengthy one, and may occupy several days. In the Hamilton Easter & Co. case some thirty witnesses are to be heard for
